ALEX MERCER

Alex Mercer is a man without memory, driven only by revenge. Using his shape shifting abilities - either by consuming targets for their form, skills and memories to assume a perfect disguise, or by transforming his body into a vast array of deadly biological weaponry - he hunts his way to the heart of the conspiracy which created him; making those responsible pay.

KEY CHARACTERS

Dana Mercer: The only person that Alex Mercer can really trust. Dana is Alex's sister and his first vital contact in Manhattan. She looks out for him, does footwork for him and believes in him. She'll do whatever's necessary to help Alex out and will never, ever cease to believe her brother is in there, somewhere.

Dr Ragland PhD: After spending eleven years working in research in the so-called the "Bio-Belt", Ragland allegedly retired to work in pathology. Ragland represents good science, hope for the future and progress. He's an upbeat foil for the Prototype to play against, someone to interact with who knows all his secrets, powers and history.

BLACKWATCH do not panic, they are rarely confused – they act with clarity and purpose that shows they know what is happening and how to deal with it.

INFECTION

Something is terribly wrong with portions of the city and it's inhabitants. Some shops and small apartment buildings are closed down and boarded up, odd corpses of bizarre creatures are recovered by the local police. An infection is spreading.

Certain significant landmarks are closed off as "containment" centers, where infected citizens are "treated", but a cover story is in place keeping this fact from the public eye. Thousands of infected are drawn together for one final confrontation.

NEW YORK CITY

In Prototype, the city of New York is a character in itself, evolving and shifting to reflect the ongoing crisis. People begin to notice things are not right in New York. There's a gathering feeling in the air, like ozone before a lightning storm; and many people report sightings of bizarre creatures, a strange military presence and new, odd diseases.
